Pamplin Nominates Mayor, Town Council; Hears Sanitarian Report

Pamplin citizens meeting Thursday night, February 6, nominated Richard F. Williams for mayor and eight other citizens to run for Town Council in November elections.

The only councilman presently in office, not nominated to succeed himself, is Z. T. Moran, who previous to the meeting, asked not to be considered for another term because of poor health.

Nominees for council include W. C. Dudley, J. M. Cobb, Sr., Woodrow W. Williams, Marion B. Duling, Wilson W. Fulcher, Roy P. Lucado, Reverend J. Leslie Hart, and Carroll Layne.

Need More Revenue

Mayor Richard Williams asked the group to consider new sources of revenue. Some of the suggestions offered include raising the price of auto tags from $5 to $7.50 and raising the Town tax levy from 75c to $1.00.

Mayor Williams also called on Graham Pitsenberger, county sanitarian, to give a report on a survey just completed on the sanitary facilities and water supplies in the Town of Pamplin.

Pitsenberger explained that he had not comp'etely worked up the data giving specific recommendations, and so would instead give some information gleaned from the survey.

"One hundred fifty-seven properties were visited," he said. "This consisted of 125 dwellings and 32 business establishments. Less than 25 per cent of the places visited would be considered in excellent condition — a majority fair or poor.'

"It appears that only a minority of the town's population is taking advantage of the public water supply available. We determined that approximately 45 per cent of the population are drinking from undesirable water supplies.'

"23 homes are disposing of their garbage and refuse on their property . . More than 25 per cent of the properties have unsightly and unnecessary rubble on the premises."

"There seems to be approximately 51 enforceable sewage violations in the town ranging from over-flowing septic tanks to no sanitary facilities."

". . . I feel that the residents should be reminded to obtain a sewage permit from the Health Department before any construction, repairs, extensions or changes are made in any sewage disposal system. This includes pit privies. The Health Department is required to issue a permit and to inspect and approve such sanitary facilities before they are to be used."

Fire-Cured Vote Slated

Growers of dark-fired tobacco will vote February 28 in a referendum on the question of whether to continue the quota and price support system on the crop.

Virginia growers of Type 21 will join their counterparts in Kentucky and Tennessee in voting on the price support system. At least two-thirds of growers in the area must vote "yes" to continue the program for the 1964, 1965 and 1966 crops.

If more than one-third of growers voting in the referendum vote "no" there will be no quotas, penalties or price support for the 1964 crop. But another referendum would be held next year on quotas for the following three years.

In 1961, Virginia growers voted 3,766 — 141 to continue—the systems through 1963.

Hunter P. Evans Will Assist With County Farm Loans

The Farmers Home Administration makes Farm Ownership loans accompanied by technical and management assistance to farmers to enlarge, improve and buy farms that will not be larger than family farms. Improvement may include basic land treatment practices such as clearing, liming, establishment of permanent pasture, and permanent hay. Farm Ownership loans can also include funds to refinance debts.

Farm Ownership loans may be scheduled for payment over a period not exceeding 40 years. The interest rate is 5 percent.

Further information may be obtained from the Farmers Home Administration office located at Farmville. Hunter P. Evans is the County Supervisor. Mr. Evans also has part-time office hours at Appomattox at the ASCS office on Tuesday mornings from 9:00 to 9:30 a.m.

FFA Week To Be Observed Here

The Robert E. Lee Chapter of the Future Farmers of America is making plans for the observance of National FFA Week, February 15-22.

Each year the FFA during the week of George Washington's birthday seeks to focus attention on the importance of the industry of agriculture in America. During the observance of National FFA Week, the Robert E. Lee Chapter will seek to explain to the public the important role that agriculture plays in the economy of our country.

College Names Beasley Dormitory

"Titus W. Beasley Day" Honors College Professor, County Native

Titus Walker Beasley, born 73 years ago at Hollywood, Virginia ten miles from Appomattox and within three miles of the Surrender Grounds was honored January 30 with a "Titus W. Beasley Day" by the citizens of Bolivar, Missouri. His day of honor climaxed 33 years of teaching and living in Bolivar, site of Southwest Baptist College. The College named a new 196 capacity dormitory for men in Mr. Beasley's honor in a special convocation in the college fieldhouse.

Bolivar citizens proclaimed him a 'great historian, educator, and outstanding citizen." Bolivar's Mayor J. V. Mommsen, in his proclamation, said that his "sincere dedication to Southwest Baptist College has ennobled the teaching profession, setting a high standard of professional ethics and instilling the qualities of integrity, scholarship and conciality."

Mr. Beasley's elementary education was cared for by private tutors the most outstanding of whom was Miss Mattie Prinkard. In 1907 Dr. William Hatcher encouraged him to enter Fork Union Military Academy. In 1918 he received his A. B. in Social Sciences from the University of Richmond. He received his Th. M. from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in 1922. He taught five years at LaGrange College, and then commenced his long career as Professor of History and Political Science at Southwest Baptist College.

Mr. Beasley, whose languages include Greek, Hebrew, Latin, German, and Spanish, has exhibited his broad concern for a wholesome community in service through the First Baptist Church Masonic Lodge, Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce, and active participation in his political party.

In tribute to Mr. Beasley a citation read at the special program honoring him included the information that Titus W. Beasley, "first son of Benjamin Walker Beasley and Isabel'a Day Beasley . . . was born in an old log cabin built before the Civil War . . . His early life was steeped in the traditions of Virginia and Early America . . . Such an environment inevitably left its mark upon the boy who was to become one of the foremost historians in the United States."

In 1948, Mr. Beasley was made honorary counsul of the Venezuelan Government and was recognized by the President of the United States.

Mr. Beasley also holds or has held the following important positions: He is a Knight Templar, a member of the American Historical Society, member of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, the Southwestern Social Science Association, the State Teachers' Association, Foreign Policy Association, Pi Gamma Mu (National Social Science Honor Society) and other similar organizations

Two issues of Southwest Baptist College's annual, the Mearkan, in 1935 and again in 1939, were dedicated to Mr. Beasley because of his lofty ideals and his keen interest in the advancement of the Greater Southwest Baptist College . . . To one whose democracy and kindness have won the admiration of all, whose noble hristian life has always been a source of inspiration to us.'

Also present at Thursday's meeting was Thomas B. Hall, Jr., general manager of the Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Marketing Association and Dr. Wyatt Osborne, VPI Plant Pathologist. County agent J. A. Smith introduced the speakers.

Agriculture Head Speaks To Dark-Fired Leaf Producers

Bobo And Rider Greet Appomattox

Bobo, a Brahma bull, and his rider, Jerry Cotten, created much interest in Appomattox Saturday morning. Mayor S. R. Lawson, gear head of the bull, was on hand to extend official greetings. Behind Mayor Lawson is Postmaster Billy Conner, who had some hometown mail for Cotten, a college student who is riding Bobo to the New York World's Fair from Fort Worth, Texas.

"Critical Year" Says Roy Davis

The coming dark tobacco growing season will be a "critical year" according to Roy B. Davis, Jr., State Department of Agriculture tobacco marketing agent, who spoke to approximately 90 farmers Thursday night at the Court House.

Davis addressed the group as a part of a series of meetings in the Typ e21 Virginia Dark-Fired Tobacco Belt. Davis told farmers their crop is a specially which European manufacturers need in quality and quantity for cigar and pipe mixture production.

If the manufacturers can get what they want, it will be a good year. If they can't, I'm afraid they will shift the amounts used in their blends, he said. He urged the growers to work their tobacco into the upper grades. "Folks using our tobacco are having trouble gotting these grades. . . We can pick up some dollars if we can bring up our grades."

All Acreage Not Planted

There was a 9,000 acre Type 21 allotment for the state the past year, but only 6,700 acres were grown.

Newton Jennings, county ASCS office manager gave the growing fi ures for Appomattox county from 1960-63. In 1960, Jennings said, there were 762 farm allotments in the county. 179 farms did not grow tobacco. With 1.192 acres available, 981 acres were planted with a yield of 1,185,357 pounds of leaf. Twenty-seven per cent of the allotment farms did not grow tobacco. In 1961 there were 754 farm allotments with 1,192 allotment acres. 967 acres were grown with a yield of 1,289-470 pounds. Twenty-four percent, 174 farm allotments, were not planted. In 1962, 757 farm allotments were available, representing 1,197 acres. Of these, 970 acres were planted, yielding 1,-254,939 pounds. Twenty- three percent of allotment farms did not plant tobacco. In 1963, 197 or the 752 farm allotments did not grow tobacco. With 1,189 acres available, only 927 acres were grown, yielding 934,462 pounds of leaf.

Davis urged growers to aim for a larger production of the wrapper and spinner type tobacco used in cigar blinders and the cutting grades used in pipe mixtures. Lower grades are used principally for plug chewing, twist, and snuff which are generally declining commodities bringing low prices from buyers, he said.

The average disappearance of Type 21 tobacco since 1953 is about equally divided between exports and domestic buying. The 10-year average is 5.3 million pounds per year to export and the same for domestic sales, Over a ten year period exports have increased slightly while domestic totals have slumped from 6.9 million pound level in 1953.

Also present at Thursday's meeting was Thomas B. Hall, Jr., general manager of the Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Marketing Association and Dr. Wyatt Osborne, VPI Plant Pathologist. County agent J. A. Smith introduced the speakers.
